around championships in the New-Jersey Athletic Club's games on Independence Day, and this being the case the winner will be hard to pick. I. K. Baxter, T. Rogers and S. K. Thomas will represent the New-York Athletic Club in the contest, and Sheridan the Pastime Athletic Club. Sheridan has been training hard and hopes to win, but many experts fancy White as the successful candidate. The reason for Kraenziein's refusal to compete is that he does not think he is fit for the contest this year. Fresident Sullivan of the New-Jersey Athletic Club, while in Chicago, made a strong effort to secure him as a competitor, but without success.

Weeks, chairman of the Athletic Committee of the New-York Athletic Club, has agreed to enter the larger part of that club's team in the New-Jersey Athletic Club's great games on Monday. The open contests in the games will be a 75-yard run, handicap; 440-yard run, handicap; mile run, handicap; 440-yard run, novice; novice team race and S50-yard run, handicap. In addition there will be two bicycle races, a mile novice, open to residents of New-Jersey only, and a two-mile handicap. Entries close with James E. ETHELBERT BEFORE KINGDON

JAMES GALWAY'S COLT SUCCESSFUL.

BLOAM IN FRONT IN THE EPRING STAKES ONLY. June days are often delectable. And June was gentle at Sheepshead Bay yesterday. afternoon of peace and joy, of sweetness and light in sun, air and sky. But not in the betting ring. Wrath was raging there, because the favorites were Weylered. The backers of favorites do not like to Five furledge, on mein track. enty youngsters were originally entered in the troubles of owners and trainers in handling twoyear-old colts and fillies. Kingdon was a precipitous favorite at towering odds on, but the conditions of the race required him to carry 125 pounds, while Ethelbert had only 118 pounds in the saddle. Sime rode Kingdon. Slean rode Ethelbert. The Sporting Page of The Tribune has hosts of loyal and thoughtful readers.

Those readers to a man hold steadfastly that Sloan is by weighty pounds a jockey above Simu.
Therefore this affair was what the Franklin Statue newsboys, in coarse Park Row slang, call a "soft enap." Sims has his chums. Some of them fell below the same of the statue of the sta to weeping when they saw Sloan riding Ethelbert with the tcy indifference to Sims on Kingdon, with which that amazing atom so often freezes the heart's blood of the champion jockey of Georgia. (Let it be kept in mind that Sims is the prize melon of Georgia, and has been for years. Sims in Georgia is a bigger man than Hoke Smith.) The bare truth of it was that Sims on Kingdon, with 125 pounds on Kingdon's spinal column, was lost riding against that artful imp, Sloan, on Ethel bert, with only 113 pounds. Early in the trip Ethel-tert had Kingdon disconcerted and discomitted. Sime was not jovial. He had ridden Lady Marian in the first race and had come in third. He had ridden Previous in the second race and had been unplaced. And now Sloan had him at his mercy ce more, as in an irksome list of other races, was well for Sloan then that Sims had no knife quarrel, and a dozen affidavits are on file to prove it. Later he cast a brick at a Coney Island waiter who was too slow to please him. Several affidavits are on file to prove that also. Sims does not like Sloan. How could Sims be expected to like a jockey who has outridden him so many times and so flagrantly? Sloan has a cottage at Sheepshead Bay.

Sims lives not far away. When Sloan is passing a dark corner it would do him no harm if he looked ever his shoulder for lurking knives or bricks.

Sloan on Ethelbert was first in the Spring Stakes, and Sims on Kingdon was second.

In the Tidal Stakes Sloan on the favorite Sanders got second place. Sims on Boy Orator was third, and Taral on Kitefoet was fourth.

The racing will be continued at Sheepshead Bay to-day.
